SUBJECT/AGENDA ACTION ITEM: National Fire Academy-Update (Course Call and Direct Delivery)

Recommended Actions: Information/Discussion

Background Information:

- The National Fire Academy (NFA) has provided access to course materials of twenty-nine (29) two-day courses; with the intent California provide interested parties the ability to deliver these courses locally. Known as Direct Delivery by State Fire Training Staff either directly or by local current NFA certified instructors (courses are approved on a case-by-case basis where local demand has been determined and a course requested). The cost of the Direct Delivery course is borne by the host agency, with the exception of SFT staff delivery.
- The courses are the same currently utilized in the Course Call program, where the NFA provides nine, two-day courses each federal fiscal year, with the NFA providing the instructor and support materials at no cost to the host agency. The Course Call program will be open for enrollment during the month of March 2017 and again in September 2017.

Analysis/Summary of Issue:

- State Fire Training (SFT) is developing administrative and internal processes to make these courses available to interested agencies, to include instructor qualifications, program costs, etc.
- For federal fiscal year 2018, the Course Call program will deliver three courses with an additional five yet to be delivered for the second course call with full consideration of volunteer agencies.
- Region Nine did provide one additional six-day course that will be a Command and Control of Fire Department Operations at Target Hazards, slated for delivery in Turlock for January 2018.
- State Fire Training is working on a final plan for review by STEAC, at the October 2017 meeting date.

The following are the courses accepted by NFA for the first course call offering for the state of California:
